Lance Wilder grew up in Chelmsford, Massachusetts, a small town 25 miles Northwest of Boston. He began drawing at 18 months old & since his earliest memories, became a fan of all things Disney, Warner Brothers Loony Tunes animation, Children's books, Norman Rockwell, classic television of the 1960's & 70's & a love of music, especially the Beatles. In June of 1990 Lance graduated with a degree in Illustration from Rhode Island School of Design ... & 5 days later, had moved to Hollywood & began his first day working in the Design Department of a fairly new & unknown animated show called, "The Simpsons".

Thirty Three years & 750 episodes later, Lance is still designing the town of Springfield & the World of the Simpsons. He also helped design the original episodes of Rugrats, did the original designs of the Hill house on "King of the Hill", did pre-production for The Simpsons Movie, helped design The Simpsons Ride for Universal Studios Hollywood & Florida & illustrated the Backgrounds & Prop designs for "The Simpsons Handbook" (a how-to-draw the Simpsons book).

Lance is a single Dad with 4 amazing kids & a beautiful granddaughter, living in Burbank California & is currently in production of Season 35 of The Simpsons with the Walt Disney Company.
