HiDow muscle stimulators massage, re-educate, stimulate, and build muscles and endurance for just about anyone – from your average Joe to a well-toned professional athlete. Yet many people still regard Electronic Muscle Stimulation (EMS) as a TENS unit. The fact is, each has its function.

While TENS units are designed to interrupt pain signals, EMS units work to stimulate healthy muscles, improving and facilitating their performance. Put simply: TENS stimulates the nerves to keep pain signals from reaching the brain;

EMS, on the other hand, causes the muscles to contract by imitating the actions originating from the central nervous system.

Includes a wireless Pro Touch device with 12 modes and up to 20 intensity level, along with foot Accessory and accubelt for compression therapy.
