About the Artist:

My goal is to convey the poetry of Hawaii. I am inspired to paint moments and capture them with passion and spontaneity. I also wish for the viewer to have a deep, personal connection within their own memories of their experiences of, and from, the Hawaiian Islands.

My paintings are derived mostly from plein air (painting on site), where I can let both the physical and visual stimulation design the composition, energy and poetry of each painting. Recently, I have been taking photos along my drives home and within a day or two reference them and conglomerate a painting that is about the feeling of Maui and the emotional reaction the Maui light evokes. Either way, the paintings are done plein air style which means it is done in one sitting. This keeps the moment of passionâ€¦
