Two people will enjoy a leisurely afternoon using their electric golf cart to complete 18 holes of golf at the Westlake Golf Course.

The Westlake Golf Course was built by famed architect Ted Robinson in 1967. The 5005-yard 18-hole course is tree-lined and has several lakes to challenge golfers. Pros and celebrities think Westlake Golf Course is special. This snippet is from an article published in 2020 on PGATour.com:

"When Danielle Kang, the LPGA major winner, was struggling with her swing, she flew home from Las Vegas and returned to Westlake's driving range to find her game. She calls it "a magical place" and her "sanctuary." Chris Como made a pilgrimage to Westlake for the first season of his Golf Channel show, "Swing Expedition." The show usually visits the game's top instructors and fanciest academies, but this episode paid homage to the place where Como worked in the cart barn and gave his first lessons."
