My art is an open representation of finding my identity and confidence through my creative process. Since a young age I have used art to express my emotions. My passion grew though being mentored in local art classes, sparking my interest in color and placement. Most of my influences come from nature and the beauty life has to offer. I am inspired by the physical ways to create features, textures, and blend colors with a mixed media style.

I often use spray-paints, acrylics, oils, pastels, and textiles. I advocate for body positivity and self-expression hoping to inspire us to be confident in who we are meant to be.
