Somewhere Along The Way a horse runs at sundown in Kalispell,
Montana.

Kendall Halliburton I am an artist based in Los Angeles. Growing up in Kalispell, Montana, cultivated my interest in simplicity and the quotidian life. I derive inspiration and methodologies from various disciplines, such as film, photography, creative writing, and media theory. Much of my work is an act of self-exploration in which each piece lends itself to the other through form, repetition, and core themes. I am honored to share that I will be starting the Graduate Program in Screenwriting at California State Northridge in Fall 2022.
