Kyllan Maney is a public artist, muralist whose work is rooted in the interactive process between the viewer and her work. She enjoys the inventive and creative process of discovering transcendence in patterns and forms found in nature. Radial patterns are a common theme in Kyllan's work, these pieces are considered by her as centering mediational moments. Kyllan shows her work across the valley in various galleries. She has created numerous murals including for Scottsdale Public Art, Culdesac, Intel, Paypal, Meta, Food for the Hungry and Downtown Tempe. As a teaching artist, Kyllan shares her art knowledge as an Instructor and is the Head of the Visual Arts Department and the Painting/Mixed Media teacher at New School for the Arts and Academics.

My butterfly designs are created in radial patterns of dots. These dots symbolize people coming together around a center point and being a part of a whole. This aligns with those who provide and seek services for homelessness and youth development. In this partnership, may it help make a better life for all who are involved, as well as our community as a whole.
